Wanted, A Preacher.

It is not intended that this be answered as an advertisement. Such answers would receive no consideration. But it is a fact that the First Baptist church of Dothan has decided that it will employ a preacher if it can find one it thinks it wants.

It has been almost a year since this church had a preacher regularly on the job. The church had one to come down and spend the summer, but when his vacation was ended he returned.

At one time in the church's history it sent a committee of one on a still hunt for a preacher. This committee went into the man's own church and heard him preach, and then talked with the members of that church. The committee thought the man would do, and told him that it had come after him. He got him, for he had the power of attorney to close up the matter.

Other times the church officials have let their wishes be known in certain college circles, where professors are supposed to have bright young men graduates under their eyes constantly, and know what size man to recommend to certain size towns. Some times this works, and then again it doesn't.

On other occasions, the church has appointed a pulpit committee, with power to do all the hunting, all the correspondence, but with instructions to report their findings back to the body for confirmation. Such a committee sometimes works under difficulty, for no sooner than it is generally known that it is on the lookout for a man, than letters of recommendation pour in from the four corners, calling urgent attention to the excellent qualifications of this man, and that man, and you would think from reading some of these letters that the writers were on a commission basis.

So this method has its drawbacks, and yet, as a whole, it is about as satisfactory as any.

Since it is impossible for the membership to go into the prospect's town and hear him deliver a sermon, he is usually invited to come to this town, at the church's expense. Of course not on trial, but merely to let him look over the town and see how he likes it. In fact, it equals the labels on C. O. D. packages, with privilege of examination, and means if he doesn't look good, he goes back. If he doesn't seem to fit, there is some method always of conveying the idea to him in such a manner as not to hurt his feelings, and he soon sees he can do more good by serving his old home church. If he is wanted, the call is extended—unanimous, always—then he goes through the motion of silently meditating over the matter for some weeks, giving an element of doubt about his final acceptance, but he always answers the still, small voice.

It is not to be taken that this particular church has a reputation of not keeping men. It has had a high class set of preachers, from the time it was first built and started off with Burr. The next was Wamboldt, then White, Campbell, Anderson and Swen. These six men have served the church over a period of eighteen years, an average of three years each, but the last one only served three or four months.

But calling a preacher is particular business.

To hold this job the preacher doesn't necessarily have to come from the Cotton Belt, but it is likely that one from this section would be more familiar with local conditions. Then nothing need be said about seeking a climatic change for any member of the family.

This is no bad church to serve. It has always paid its preachers more than they had been getting in other towns, and when they left, it was to take hold of other fields where there was plenty of work. To have served any church here is an honor and a recommendation to go among strangers with. Now will begin the work of hunting a preacher, whose congregation doesn't want to give him up.

Slow Work

The census clerks at Washington must have got it into their heads that when Birmingham's census was made known that the rest of the country didn't care about getting reports. Nothing has been given out since that eventful day. We believe that he ought to take it up with our senators and congressmen, now that the election is over, and see about giving more help in the office, at least enough help to make the count for four or five towns a month.

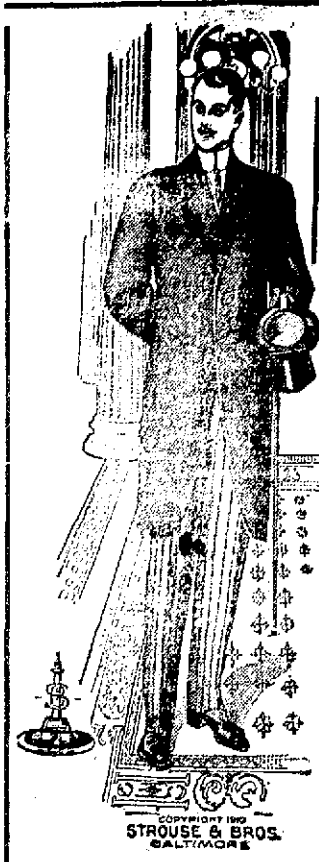

The way this thing is going, the government building at Dothan will be finished before the count. This will never do.

Had we all known that the work would have been so slow as this, we would have gone ahead and made our own count, and made it known when we got through six or eight months ago.

The most of the daily readers of this paper pay for it by the year, at $5 a clip. While the special mark-down sale is on they go at $4, where a year is paid in full at a time. You know it's like taxes, you may not enjoy paying for it, but you know you will want it, so you might as well let your renewals come along while the votes can be applied to something good.

The Savannah Morning News wants it understood that people mustn't get in the way when Savannah goes to have her big automobile races. It thinks that if people get in the way they will be taken out gently, but if it takes force, they will use it. Even an animal that starts towards the track, is to be shot down, if it cannot be stored otherwise.

This term "tidal wave" has been overworked, and the Democrats have done it too.

TWO DEATHS IN ONE FAMILY

There were two sad deaths in one family yesterday at Ardilla, when Murdock Kennedy, the 24-year-old son of Mr. H. J. Kennedy, of that place, and Alsey, a 16-year-old son died. The younger Kennedy died yesterday morning and was followed by his brother, whose death came yesterday afternoon. Murdock Kennedy is survived by a wife and one child.

The funeral of the two young men will take place this afternoon at Cowarts cemetery.

Death called the mother of the two brothers about a month ago.

HOW LONG?

There are several thousand people in Dothan and surrounding country who would like to know how long will the opening of the crossing of Foster and Main streets be delayed. The brick has been laid for two or three weeks, and they do not seem to come up to the contract, and nothing is being done to get them up and put down good brick.

When the city made a contract for this paving, the contractors left a sample of the brick, and the contract says that the brick used on the streets are to come up to the sample. The brick laid on Foster street likes about 50 per cent. coming up to the sample, according to the city authorities. They have been gone over and inspected and culled, and talked about, but they are still there, and the street is still blocked.

The paving crew has moved over and is putting down the work on the last job, on North St. Andrews street. On this street, it is claimed, a good grade of brick is laid out, and they might be hauled over and put down on Foster street, and one of the streets could be opened, whereas now they are both closed to travel.

The contractors have sent a man to Birmingham to look into the matter of shipping other brick here, and the public is inconvenienced during the time. There are enough good brick in Dothan to finish up the crossing of Main and Foster, that the public might be turned in, but this isn't done. It should be without further delay. If we are to wait on a shipment from Birmingham, or somewhere else, there is no telling when the streets will be cleared for travel. Many people think the town is too rigid on its inspection.

The contract is plain, and the council should stand by it. If it was too severe to live up to, the contractors, who are experienced in the business, should not have signed it.

The city bought a brick of a certain grade, to be put down for so much per yard, and should the city compromise on a poorer grade it would be doing the tax payers of the town an injustice.

But the city should require the contractors to get action on these two streets, where there is more travel than the rest of town. There is no need for delay, so long as there are plenty of good brick in town to finish this job where it is needed so badly.

NO BILL FOUND AGAINST GOODWIN

The Houston county grand jury that adjourned yesterday afternoon failed to find a bill against W. H. Goodwin, the former manager of the Dothan Auto and Garage Company, who was charged with larceny.

Goodwin was arrested some few months ago on a warrant sworn out by Capt. A. J. Smith, who was proprietor of the garage at the time. He alleges that Goodwin took automobile accessories to the amount of $1500.

Goodwin was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Leslie and was bound over to the grand jury under a $500 bond, which he made and returned to Georgia.

After being notified of his release yesterday afternoon, he returned to Cuthbert, where he is in the automobile repair business.

BIRTH OF NEW WORDS

Were George Washington to be suddenly restored to life and be dropped down in any busy American community, he might have a great deal of difficulty in carrying on an ordinary conversation, and it would certainly require long hours of study to bring himself to an understanding of what are now the merest commonplace. Until the matter could be explained to him he would not know what was meant by the word telephone, and automobile would be all Sanscrit to the father of this country. Drawing on only those everyday conveniences that no longer attract passing attention, General George would "have to be shown" before he could understand phonograph, street car, aeroplane, airship, ocean liner, Pullman car, motor, incandescent light, gasoline, skyscraper, asphalt paving, cotton gin, sewing machine, trunk line, searchlight, armored cruiser, fountain pen, repeating arms, radium, X-ray, airplane, radio, postage stamp, telegraph, suffragette, express, San Diego, Klondike, breakfast cereal and thousands of other terms that have been developed to meet the needs of the modern invention. He would probably prefer to go to eternal rest than try to keep up with the modern stride. George Washington did not live very long ago at that!—Columbus Dispatch.

Aluminium Powder.

Owing to the property which aluminium possesses of producing a very high temperature when burned with substances that give off oxygen, it has been employed from time to time for making a detonator for firing explosives that do not readily respond to the action of the detonating compositions generally employed.

The aluminium is used in the shape of a powder mixed with the other substances filling the percussion caps or detonators. The sudden high temperature induced by the pulverized aluminium results in a greater mechanical energy than can be produced with compositions not containing aluminium.—Harvard Magazine.

Long Distance Horseback Riding.

One of the most remarkable accomplishments in long distance horseback riding was in the early part of the last century when Squire Obaldstone, at Newmarket, England, on a wager of $5,000, was to ride 200 miles within ten hours. The horses were changed at the end of the four mile circuit, some of them being ridden two or three times, and one, Fraudy, was brought out for a fourth mount. The squire had to mount and remount each horse from the ground, not using a mounting block, so losing time and taking more strain. In spite of this and the ground not being in good condition, the 200 miles were covered in eight hours and thirty-nine minutes. About thirty horses were

Cottolene LARD

Lard is the fore-runner of indigestion. The high-fat soaks the pastry through and through, his meats inside and out with a dark, unhealthy grease that the digestive juices cannot penetrate. The result is a call on the doctor whose advice is to go on a diet and avoid all rich food.

You can eat pies, cakes and all kinds of pastry if they are cooked with Cottolene, for it is a pure, healthful, vegetable product that contains no trace of beef fat, and does not make food thick and greasy.
